DETAILED ACTION

Applicant's election of Groups I-II combined submitted September 20, 2002 is acknowledged. Applicant's election of Groups I-II and specie of compound 38 in Paper No. 4 is acknowledged. Because applicant did not distinctly and specifically point out the supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election has been treated as an election without traverse (MPEP § 818.03(a)).

During a phone conversation with applicant's representative on September 13, 2002, as well as in the response of 9/20/2002, Mr. Stevenson indicated on the record that Group II represents a subset of Group I. Therefore the restriction requirement between Group I and II are withdrawn and the two groups are herein examined together.

Claims 31-37 and 39 are withdrawn from consideration as being drawn to non-elected inventions. Claim 30 is withdrawn from consideration as being drawn to a non-elected specie.

Claims 1-29 and 38 are herein examined on the merits in so far as they read on the elected specie of compound 38.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-5 and 38 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The term "substantially" in claims 1 and 38 is a relative term which renders the claim indefinite. The term "substantially" is not defined by the claim, the specification does not provide a standard for ascertaining the requisite degree, and one of ordinary skill in the art would not be reasonably apprised of the scope of the invention. One of ordinary skill in the art cannot ascertain what degree of inhibition will be classified as "substantial". 20%? 50%? 80%? 99.99%?

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 1-29 and 38 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sperl et al. (USPN 6,066,634) in view of Berkow et al. (The Merck Manual of Medical Information, Home Ed., 1997, p. 253)

Sperl et al. (USPN 6,066,634) teaches compound 38, the elected specie herein, in Example 1, see cols. 16-17, claims 1 and 28 in particular. Sperl et al. also teaches that its compounds are known PDE inhibitors and that they do not substantially inhibit COX-1 and COX-2, see col. 5, lines 19-30 and col. 28, line 49-col. 29, line 9. Sperl et al. also teaches the employment of its compounds in a method of treating autoimmune diseases, see col. 5, lines 8-18.

Sperl et al. does not particularly teach lupus erythematosus as an autoimmune disease.

Berkow et al. (The Merck Manual of Medical Information, Home Ed., 1997, p. 253) teaches that lupus erythematosus is an autoimmune disease.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to employ compound 38 in a method of treating lupus.

One of ordinary skill in the art would have been motivated to employ compound 38 in a method of treating lupus because compound 38 is known to be useful in methods of treating autoimmune diseases, a class of diseases which includes lupus.
